Wish to make the dream of a train platform come true

Self-selected train advocate

Last summer, the children and I went on a train holiday. On the way home we took a chance and hopped on the train to Kalix which passes Niemisel's station. We kindly asked to get off and imagine the joy when they agreed. Like winning the lottery. I felt completely euphoric, that it was possible to get off at home. It was the fine train staff who made it possible. But should one really depend on the good will of the train staff?

The train Luleå – Kalix passes Niemisel 3 times a day in each direction. Talk about unused resource. After getting off the train at Niemisel station, I realize that some remodeling is required to allow for a new platform. How could this have happened? That a recently rebuilt and renovated railway does not enable passenger traffic.

After looking through the final report for the Haparanda Line, I realize that the focus was on freight transport. The refurbishment included strengthening the track infrastructure, changing tracks, renovating drums, bridges and refurbishing meeting stations (amongst Niemisel's). What was not mentioned was that the platform and the station building in Niemisel were demolished. The gratifying thing is that we have a state-of-the-art railway with capacity for 24 trains per day.

We can compare Niemisel with Tvärålund, a village about 5 miles northwest of Umeå. There is a small platform here where the villagers can use the nine departures to Umeå every day. If you read the statistics of the central office, the outbound commuting is about 160 and the inbound commuting about 20 to Niemisel. Together with the Gunnarsby area, there is more than enough support.

I have a dream to be able to take the kick to the train, get on the train at 7, eat a packed breakfast, start the working day and arrive at Luleå central at approx. 8. So, it is the same time it takes me to drive a car. But I can work on the train. I take the afternoon train back and can be home around 17:30. This is entirely possible with the current timetable, but the lack of a platform makes it difficult.

I think there are more people than me who could use the train. The train towards Luleå passes the station at Sunderby Hospital. It enables sick transport. Today's tourists are becoming more and more environmentally conscious and I believe that the demand for environmentally friendly transport is increasing. With a platform in Niemisel, Råne älvdal could become a climate-smart destination.

With the green transition and the expected move-in, the Niemisel and Gunnarsby area is extremely interesting. We can offer a living environment that many Europeans dream of. What often speaks against our fine river valley is precisely the communications. How can we work to make the dream of a platform a reality and enable passenger traffic from the Råne river valley? If you have any wise thoughts, please let me know.

Summer, lots of sun and rain and I'm thinking about autumn's work on Råek's board.

The annual general meeting held on 25 May approved the board's proposal for an operational plan for the financial year. The members who attended the meeting did a group project under the heading how do we become Northern Europe's coolest village.

The board will also work with the results of this very active group work during the autumn.

I'm looking forward to this and the autumn outdoor activities.

All the best

ÄLVSKOLAN

Autumn is here and we will be doing many fun and educational things at the school. We will be at Grön Marknad where we, among other things, will sell tea cakes. We will also have a writing project with Skapande Skola and do many other exciting things that we are looking forward to.

During the summer, the school got new windows and doors. It was bright and nice.

See you at Grön Marknad!

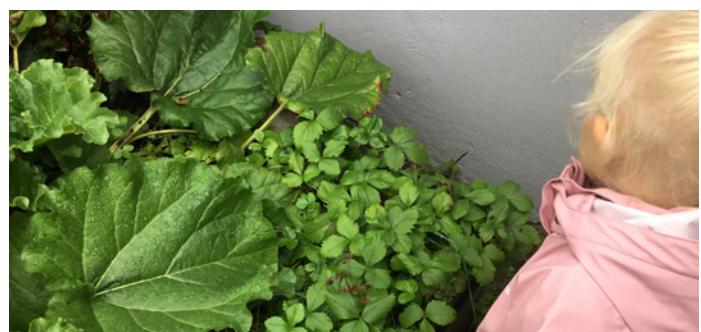

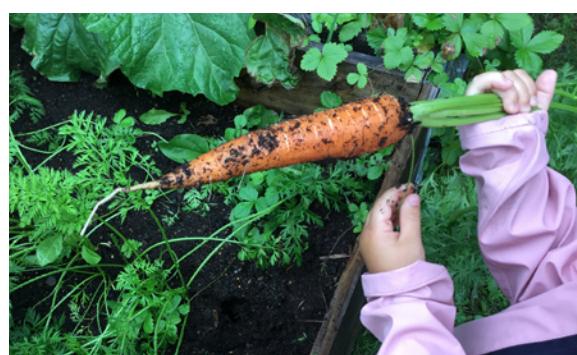

GUNNARSBYNS FÖRSKOLA

Last spring we planted at the preschool. According to the curriculum for preschool, we must lay the foundation for an interest in sustainable development and an understanding of the cycle of nature.

By working on the growing plot, the children can follow a plant's life cycle from seed to finished vegetable/flower and then pick seeds from the vegetable/flower for the next season.

KVARNÅ FÖRSKOLA

We harvest our carrots and see if they have grown large in the soil during the summer. At the beginning of the summer, the children planted carrots, zinnias and sunflowers and now we enjoy the greenery in our outdoor garden. The currant bushes produce a lot of berries and the children pick and eat every day.

Psst....

Gunnarsby Second hand is looking for more volunteers who want to work in the store. Contact Råek if you are interested.

We also want to remind you to hand in whole and clean clothes, furniture and other things. We can sell what is complete, clean and functional.

INFORMATION EVENING BEFORE THE CRAB FISHING

The County Administrative Board in Norrbotten had an information evening in Älven's house in Niemisel before this year's crayfish fishing. The purpose was to prevent the spread of crayfish plague to Norrbotten. Maja Wressel, nature conservation officer at the County Administrative Board in Norrbotten held in the evening.

Tomas Jonsson, Kräftmannen AB, from Värmeland talked about the crayfish life cycle and how they worked with the crayfish plague there. Tony Söderlund, Skellefteå municipality, talked about the outbreak of crayfish plague in Skellefteälven in 2022. A rewarding evening, good discussions.

In order to avoid crayfish plague in the Råneälven, the local population, but especially the fishery conservation associations, have a great responsibility, both to prevent and in case of possible outbreaks to have a contingency plan that is anchored with the actors involved.

RAILWAY 120 YEARS

On July 13, 1903, the Boden-Morjärv railway line was inaugurated with great pomp and ceremony, attended by King Oskar II, Crown Prince Gustav, railway general Granholm and some military personnel. Stations were built in Niemisel, Degerselet and Bjurå, among others.

The road network was also expanded within Råneå parish. Between the years 1900 and 1950, the population of Niemisel increased by almost 200 people. An important part of this development was definitely infrastructure development.

The construction cost of the entire track was estimated at almost 5 million SEK, a huge amount of money at the time. In today's money value, it corresponds to about 330 million SEK.

The call of the North

TEXT och FOTO Anne Rüttimann

Andreas grew up on a mountain farm in Switzerland. After finishing carpentry school he served in the military and afterwards travelled through Alaska, South America and Scandinavia. One of those trips led him to the North of Sweden, where he decided to stay. Anne grew up in Germany and since she can remember loved dogs and snow. After 12 years working in tourism and many trips to Northern countries she met Andi on a dogsled tour in the northernmost fjäll region of Sweden. And that was it! The common dream was soon to be reality - a sustainable life surrounded by nature, simple and good. We first settled in Tornedalen where our son Mikko was born and moved to Överstbyn in 2022.

We are often asked why we moved so far up North and why particularly here. The answer is simple: Because we love winter! But there are more good reasons for a life in the Råne Ålvdal, many more! Additionally to the fantastic winters, there are warm summers and a versatile landscape. Furthermore, we find everything we need within a reasonable distance. We are surrounded by nature but at the same time we are part of a very nice community where people are welcoming and everyone is helping each other. Although there is always a lot of work, we find our life peaceful and never boring. With the Lanthandel and the school in Gunnarsbyn we have the most important infrastructure close by. In summer our son can reach the school by bike and in winter by dogsled - that's the cherry on the cake!

Living and working with a pack of sled dogs is a dream that came true. We offer dogsled tours from 1,5 hours to 2 days with an overnight in a cabin or tent. All tours are exclusive for groups of 2 - 5 people and include a relaxed atmosphere, good homemade food and enough time to get to know the dogs. The Winterdog pack is a colourful mix of individuals with different looks and different characters. But one thing they all have in common: They love to pull!

Last winter guests in the age between 3 and 83 years from a lot of different countries joined a Winterdog tour. A highlight for us was that also a handful locals joined a tour and got to see their homeland from a new perspective - a great experience as they assured.

The local community means a lot to us and we are very happy to cooperate with other local tourism companies. We like to support each other in every possible way and we believe that if we all work together instead of next to or even against each other, everybody wins.

The plan for the future includes a cabin which allows guests to stay for several days and explore the winter during dogsled tours and other nature activities. And who knows, maybe we can even attract people to move here permanently. Why just spend holidays in a place that has a whole good life to offer?

Feasibility study to enable villa plots in Råne river valley

The municipality of Boden has started work to enable the construction of new detached houses in the Råne river valley. A preliminary study has been started where Boden municipality in collaboration with Råek mapped the conditions based on, among other things, high flows, land ownership and existing building rights.

During the autumn, the work continues through, among other things, dialogue with landowners, land releases and in-depth investigations for potential areas.

The initiative for the work comes from Överbyn's village council, which in a letter to the municipality of Boden requested that the conditions for new single-family housing be investigated.

- The feasibility study is part of the work to become 33,000 Boden residents by the year 2030 and in the work with The Good Life, says Lars Andersson, Head of Planning and Development, Boden Municipality.

The preliminary study runs throughout 2023.

New degree job about future living in rural areas

TEXT Luleå kommun ILLUSTRATIONS Lisa Lödén

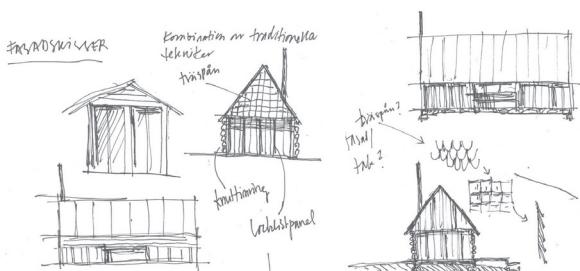

Architecture student Lisa Lödén picked up on the ad to do her ex-job in collaboration with Luleå Municipality with the theme Living in the countryside of the future. The initial phase of the work consisted of site visits along the Råne river valley and interviews with residents and representatives of the Fembyarna (Böle, Prästholm, Melderstein, Orrbyn and Niemiholm). The choice of location fell on the municipal property around Böle Bygdegård. Lisa chose to develop the community center as an important meeting place and design housing in connection.

Jenny Lindberg, community planner at Luleå Municipality, has followed Lisa through the process as an external supervisor.

- It is very fun to dare to think new things together with a student and see opportunities in our villages! This is a very good project from start to finish.

The work was presented at Lund School of Architecture in June 2023. The goal going forward is to invite Lisa during the fall so she can present the work to interested villagers and associations as well as municipal officials.

The importance of salmon and salmon fishing for the Råneälven

TEXT Sven Norman, ordförande Degerselsbygdens Samfällighetsförening

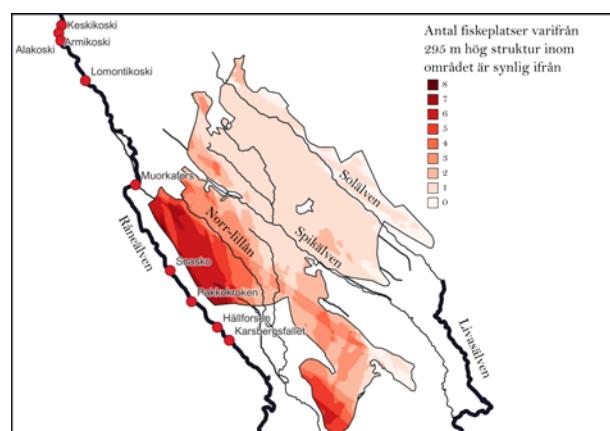

In the latest issue of Just Nu, I described the impact of Storlandet's wind farm on the conditions for the trout to survive and thrive in the Råneälven's tributaries. I determined there that the trout will probably be strongly negatively affected by, for example, faster runoff and higher water temperatures which are an unavoidable consequence of the construction of the proposed industrial park. In this issue, I thought I'd go into more detail about salmon and salmon fishing.

The salmon usually spawn in the main channel of the river and are therefore not as sensitive to faster runoff and higher water temperatures in tributaries. However, Vattenfall points out in passing that they will probably use the produced electricity to produce hydrogen in the area. For every liter of hydrogen produced, 9 liters of water are needed. I cannot answer how much water will be used in total, but Vattenfall needs to answer that. It is clear that young salmons need the near-shore, shallow zones for protection and foraging – the Råneälven's water flow is only between 10 and 15 m³ per second during low flow.

Salmon fishing in the Råneälven provides good income to the community every year, and the statutes state that all income must be reinvested in fisheries conservation and measures that favor accessibility by the river. Some actual examples of investments made in recent years are new boat drop-off site, upgrading a road down to the river and replacing benches and barbecue areas, as well as analysis of the salmon run using our salmon counter. Why do fishermen choose to visit the Råneälven for salmon fishing when we do not come close to the larger salmon rivers' number of rising salmon? I think the answer lies in the river's almost unique wilderness character, where you can relatively easily find out and get away from all forms of nature exploitation. It is our so-called unique selling point. How do you measure the impact of 373 wind power towers in the area on this feeling of being undisturbed in undisturbed nature?

I analyzed this through a so-called cumulative sight analysis based on 13 of our most popular fishing spots for salmon. The map shows, for example, that if 295 m high wind turbines are built in the area southwest of Norr-lillån, these will be visible from between 4 and 7 of these locations. Furthermore, regardless of where in the area wind turbines are built, they will be visible from at least some place.

Boden municipality and the Swedish Armed Forces have already said no to the development, but Gällivare municipality's attitude remains to be conveyed. A consultation on the thematic addition to the general plan is ongoing until September 29, where the municipality will ultimately take a position. Make sure to make your voice heard, this is your chance to make an impact. Consultation responses must be sent in writing no later than September 29 to sam@gallivare.se, remember to write the diary number in the subject line - "KSst/2022:673".
