Places that make a difference

Growing up

In the village of Bjurå. The family has lived in Råneå and Vitå river valleys as far back as you can see

Current with

21 years as a freelancer, the field of work is the entire Northern Hemisphere

A couple of days ago we wanted to gather around a good movie. Of course, I fell asleep after about ten minutes. But the film awakened a memory that stretches back a bit in time.

In the winter of 1988, I had practiced air rifle shooting in Forstråskhed. On my way home to Bjurå, I stopped at Texaco in Niemisel where my eyes swept over the notice board. A notice board that once upon a time told, among other things, when Niemisel's AIK had their next home game. Now I was instead surprised that a film would be shown at Folkets hus in Gunnarsbyn. The afternoon was already dark, it was maybe -20 degrees and the plow arms were high. I had borrowed my father and mother's white 745 and the cassette tape was Tracy Chapman's album including Fast car.

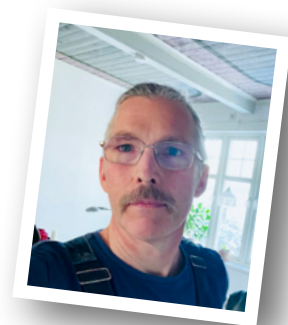

It was a very spontaneous visit to the fine cinema in Gunnarsbyn. There I was treated to one of the most memorable cinema experiences. It was the occasion and the situation that did it, as much as the film itself. The movie music with Frank Sinatra's and That's Amore was still inside me when I restarted the car.

After that I have returned to the fine village cinema many times. I have pretty much always chosen the cinema in Gunnarsbyn over the cinema in Luleå. There have been a number of other experiences there over the years. Also about ten reportages in connection with various events. What a wealth indeed it is to have such a place.

In the gym in Niemisel, we are a group that trains together three evenings a week. In the same way as Folket hus in Gunnarsbyn, my old and beautiful gym welcomes me every time. It's like it gives me a hug right as I step over the threshold. The gym has exactly the same smell as when I went to school there in the 70s. There are the same rib chairs. Same benches, plinths and gray rubber mats. Same floor.

There have been perhaps 300 sessions in the almost 2.5 years that I have trained there now. And every time I return, I do so with joy. I would much rather go there than to nicer and flashier premises in Boden, Råneå and Luleå.

These places. Like the cinema in Folkets Hus in Gunnarsbyn and the gym in Niemisel, are two good examples of when the countryside is at its very best. There are two places that are all about feeling good. It is therefore also two places that make a difference. In my case, it's about me traveling up along the river valley. When I make that trip, I always have the feeling of going in the right direction.

Chairman has the floor

August has arrived with heat and thunderstorms. There are so many berries everywhere that everyone should have their supply full.

The annual general meeting on 28 May approved the business plan and the proposal for a new board. At the annual general meeting, the members did a project under the title How do we go from dream scenario to action? The results will be processed by the board during the autumn. The goals that are a high priority will continue to be so, and the job of housing and population growth is on the table. Råek will increase accessibility to the second-hand shop during the autumn, and it will be an exciting development.

All the best

GUNNARSBYNS PRESCHOOL

The keyword is In Nature - natural learning. Words that Gunnarsby preschool lives up to. Kia Wernersson, a preschool teacher, talks about movement, which is part of the educational activities that take place outside. Run, jump, roll and walk. All seasons, knowledge and experience are built in the children by learning in the natural environments that are available in the immediate vicinity and occasionally on excursions to nearby villages. The goal is to have healthier children with better fitness, appetite, conversations and greater knowledge of nature and a feeling that the children can take with them to school and the rest of their lives.

When Just Nu visits, Gabriel De Angelis is in school and father Luca is there. He is very satisfied with the family's choice to settle in Gunnarsbyn. Gabriel has just moved here with his mother from Bergamo in Italy and joined Luca who has been there for a while. Even if Gabriel doesn't know Swedish yet, it will come to him quickly, says Kia. Experience from the last decade, with children from all corners of the world, means that languages with a Latin connection are not particularly difficult to bridge into Swedish for the children. You also work with language development in synergy with everything else you do.

There is a steady stream of children entering and by the autumn there will be almost a full department. Which in the future gives a steady stream of children up to Älvskolan, which is wall to wall.

NEW PRINCIPAL

Hello. My name is Karin Öberg and from the start of the autumn term I am the new principal of Svartbjörnsbyn school, Älvskolan and Gunnarsbyn preschool. I come from Brönjaskolan in Boden, where I worked as assistant principal for two years.

Me and my husband Jonas (who works as a church musician in Gunnarsbyn's parish) moved back to Norrbotten after working with music education for 25 years in Örnsköldsvik.

In addition to my school leadership, I freelance as a singer and choir director in various contexts. Maybe you have visited a concert that me and Jonas held in Gunnarsbyn church or at Forsbergs.

I look forward to working together with staff, students and guardians at the school and preschool and being part of the collaboration with the entire district!

KVARNÅ PRESCHOOL

We focus on security as a basis for learning. This school year we start with 15 children who meet four teachers at the preschool every day. We divide the children into three smaller groups during the preschool project time and work towards all the goals of the curriculum throughout the day. This year we are putting extra focus on children's development of identity and integrity as well as on science, where we place the teaching outdoors and work with animals and plants, physical phenomena and simple chemical processes.

Girls meeting with a long tradition

I meet the girls at Sörbyn Lodge when they arrive. Some with a driver, some driving there in their own car. It's the last summer Friday with a barbecue theme at Sörbyn Lodge. They happily pose in front of the entrance this evening. Inken Andresen points out that there must absolutely be a bottle of red wine, of high quality, that goes on the table! We take the picture and I realize that youth never leaves a part of us. A realization that social contact and the joy of sharing experiences, in this case with peers, can be a large part of the recipe for that.

As I don't want to interrupt them in their party mood, I make an appointment to sit down with Margareta Hansson a few days later at the home in Sundsnäs to get more background on these meetings. I wave the ladies off and think that I would love to be a fly on the wall, right at their table this evening to be enriched with the most amazing stories, most likely some from the World War II era. Wow!

One sunny and warm morning, in Sundsnäs a few days later, Margareta tells us that parts of this gang, in different constellations, have been meeting for 45 years. Mostly at home with each other, and for many years with the men present. But they have since fallen away. It was us, the women who cooked in the old days at the meetings every five, six weeks. But, once a year it was the men who would cook! Nowadays, people like to meet at Sörbyn Lodge. Friday had invited a long sitting for the next four hours and the conversations had flowed easily.

- But being at someone's home can sometimes create an atmosphere that makes the conversations even closer and more personal than out on the premises. However, it is becoming more difficult to find the energy to cook at home these days, says Margareta.

And I hatch an idea! Maybe I (or another volunteer) can step up and cook a fall dinner for these ladies, at one of their homes next time? Imagine being able to eavesdrop from the kitchen on all the wisdom, lethality and other things that are hardly imaginable for someone like me and I'm 50+ anyway. That would be magical!

ROAD CONSTRUCTION COMPLETED SOON!

Road 356 from Råne älvdal towards Boden has had a condition that has been criticized for many years. The wait for action has been long, but in 2023, construction work began on the 17 kilometer stretch between Åskogen and Deger-sel . According to the Swedish Transport Administration, the road is classified as an important business road that was in need of reinforcement for improved accessibility and traffic safety. During the past year, for example, the road has been reinforced, load-bearing capacity deficiencies have been remedied, parking spaces and curves have been widened and road culverts have been replaced.

At the time of writing, the paver team is working intensively to get the asphalt surface out, starting from the exit road to Aldernäs and towards Boden. Here it is important that the different teams are in sync.

- A bottleneck has been getting hold of trucks and drivers, says Markus Eklund, who is supervisor of the laying team that is the first to use the asphalt machines.

Something that several industries bear witness to, for example timber transport. Once the asphaltting starts, it is important that it does not stop and that those who spread gravel, those who drive overturns and those who plan make time in front. This makes the cars with gravel especially important now towards the final.

By the time you are reading this, we hope that work is largely finished, despite notice of a delay of a week or so.

Bench walk on Niemiselsberget

Last spring, Niemisel's village association called for people who were interested in building a bench. There was a good turnout and a total of 10 benches were submitted. During the spring and summer, the association has cleared old paths that have grown again and also created new ones to be able to do a Bench Walk. Now all the benches are deployed The bench promenade is inaugurated and open to everyone who wants to enjoy a walk on the Niemiselsberget. There are two loops, both are clearly marked and we start and end at Älvens hus. The longer version is 1150 m and runs in slightly more hilly terrain and is therefore slightly more challenging. For those who prefer to take an easy walk, there is the shorter loop of 420 m. Along the loops are the self-built benches, each of which has a unique charm. Where you can sit down for a while and enjoy the silence. Or why not fill your backpack with something good and enjoy a coffee.

First summer with new opening hours of Niemisel's livs

It has now been a few months since Niemisel's livs opened up the possibility of entering with a bank ID and shopping outside regular opening hours.

- I am so happy about all the customers who have found their way here. The only thing that has been difficult is calculating how much is spent on all the goods. But we are learning all the time, says Sanna Svanberg, owner of the store.

The rolling library that comes (almost) to your home

Boden's Book Bus is a mobile library that visits villages, schools and preschools in Boden's municipality. Currently, approximately 35 villages, 20 preschools and 10 schools are visited. The book bus comes to the stops approximately every five weeks. In Råne älvdal there are stops in Gunnarsbyn, Sörbyn, Överstbyn and Norriån. Älvskolan and Gunnarsbyn preschool also have booked times for visits.

Anyone who wants can get a library card on the Book Bus, the only thing needed is a valid ID. Children under the age of 18 need approval from a parent/guardian. You can use the library card at all public libraries in Norrbotten, for example, you can borrow a book from Bokbussen and return it in Kiruna or Piteå.

At Bokbussen you can borrow books, magazines, audio books and music. The book bus holds approximately 3,000 books for all ages, from touch books and picture books for small children, chapter books and facts for children and young people to thick novels, detective stories and fact books for adults. There are also books in languages other than Swedish, for example English, Arabic, Ukrainian, Sami, Thai and more. If you want books with an extra large style, this can also be arranged. It is also possible to order books from other libraries, both in Norrbotten and the rest of Sweden, if you are interested in a book that is not on the bus.

In addition to lending books, the Book Bus also organizes various events, as time and opportunity allow. Among other things, we usually arrange author visits for adults and book bus theater and story and song sessions for children. For a couple of weeks in June, we also have a summer tour with slightly longer stops at the stops. Then there is the opportunity to sit down on Bokbussen's comfortable sofa and do crafts, draw or read a book or two. We are happy to collaborate with various associations when it comes to events. In connection with the summer tour, various associations have, for example, organized coffee sales, pony rides and qigong.

There have been book buses in Boden municipality since 1970, so the book bus business has had time to celebrate 50 years. Our current black and orange bus is the fourth in the order and it has been on the roads since 2012. The book bus has approximately 15,000 visits and 25,000 loans per year, making it the largest library branch in the municipality.

SMART LOCAL TRANSPORT SOLUTIONS

From the start of the autumn semester, a 9-seater minibus operates Gunnarsbyn - Niemisel on weekdays for families in the Niemisel district who have chosen to place their children at Älvskolan in Gunnarsbyn. During weekends and school holidays, it becomes available to book for a fee for members, as well as enabling smart transport if needed, when there are events in the area and in Boden.

A very important addition for the continued development of the district and a great opportunity for members.

A nagging community association

TEXT Sven Norman, ordförande Degerselsbygdens Samfällighetsförening

Sometimes it feels like we're just talking about the salmon in Just Nu - Råneälven is so much more! Unfortunately, right now we have no choice but to keep nagging. The Råneälven has been a salmon river for thousands of years, but we are now down to such low numbers of migrating salmon that further deterioration could lead to their complete disappearance, and if that happens, it won't come back.

During 2010, an average of 2,300 salmon migrated up to spawn. In the best season, the number was almost 4,200, while in the worst, only about 1,000 salmon were caught. In the years 2022 - 2024, the salmon stock has been halved each year from 2022's already remarkably low 538 salmon.

There is no doubt that our salmon population is in crisis. This despite the fact that the ReBorN - Restoration of Boreal Nordic rivers project between 2016 and 2022 has recreated and improved 3.5 miles of the river channel and created hundreds of spawning grounds for salmon. The salmon that returns to the river thus finds a river in top condition. It is clear that the cause of the salmon crisis is at sea, not least because many other salmon rivers are showing similar dramatic declines. The reason is not the salmon fishing at sea, the reason is not the small-scale sturgeon fishing - the reason is apparently the large-scale trawling which accounts for approx. 97% of the total sturgeon catch. The trawlers are currently too strong a competitor for the salmon's main food.

With a river in top condition and well-developed management in the river, we fuss about the salmon because it is our only way to influence its situation.

Three television crews visited the river to talk about the salmon's situation and about 30 newspapers re-reported our press release that we sent out in connection with us taking our responsibility and closing the salmon fishery. We work to build public opinion for a changed fisheries management at sea. Unfortunately, we still don't see any results, but we keep nagging. You can help us with that - share news articles on social media and sign petitions.

ABOUT US

We were formed in 1994 through the administration of all fishing rights included in the combined fisheries within Degerselsbygden's village association, and at the time of formation was Sweden's largest fishing association, with nearly 300 different shareholders.

When it was formed, it was decided to create a short fishing area in collaboration with SVEASKOG and SCA, where as large a part of the river as possible would be included. It is the same area as today. It was also decided that all income from fishing would return to the river in the form of biotope conservation, information, supervision and other fishing promotion measures.
